TALMADGE PROGRAM LAID BEFORE ASSEMBLY; 'REGENTS BILL WILL KILL PWA LOAN'--WELTNER

'JAFSIE' SHADOWED BY HAUPTMANN, MODEL CHARGES

Friend of Condon Says She Saw Him Being Followed by Bruno Nearly Month Before Ransom Was Paid.

OSBORN'S FINDINGS ARE CORROBORATED

Another Authority on Disputed Documents Identifies Handwriting in Notes.

By JOHN FERRIS.
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A pretty blonde pajama model accused Bruno Hauptmann of shadowing Dr. James F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh baby ransom hoax, as the carpenter's prosecutors tonight took elaborate precautions to shield the identity of three surprise witnesses from Europe.

The model, chic and stately Hildegarde Oiga Alexander, enlivened a trial session otherwise devoted to additional expert testimony accusing Hauptmann as the man who wrote the 14 ransom notes.

A friend of Dr. Condon's for 12 years, she took the stand at Hauptmann's trial for the murder of the Lindbergh baby to say he was "Jafsie" in a Bronx telephone booth in May 1932, a month before Dr. Condon paid the $50,000 ransom, and that another man was watching him "very significantly."

"I say the man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," she declared firmly.

Hauptmann flinches.

A faint flush stole over the carpenter's pallid face. His wife, the plump Anna, turned white.

New Jersey authorities, meanwhile, took careful steps to guard the names of the three persons who will arrive in New York tomorrow aboard the liner Ille de France, in the company of Detective Arthur Johnson of the New York police.

They will be taken from the liner secretly aboard a government cutter to an unannounced destination to await their turn to testify.

German experts have indicated one of the three might be Hanna Fisch, sister of the late Adolf Fisch, from whom Hauptmann says he got the ransom bills with which he was caught.

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, of New Jersey, said merely that some of the witnesses were "relatives of the witnesses."

Bright Interlude.

Miss Alexander, who arched her fashionable eyebrows petulantly at the barbed queries of Edward J. Reilly, chief of Hauptmann's defense, provided a bright interlude in the testimony of handwriting experts who again called Hauptmann the ransom note writer.

These 14 notes, the first one left on the window sill of Baby Lindbergh's nursery when the baby was stolen and slain on March 1, 1932, cost $100,000. Charles E. Lindbergh $50,000. "Jafsie" says he paid the money to Hauptmann in St. Raymond's cemetery a month and a day after the kidnapping.

In the Warburg auditorium, Hauptmann's lawyer argued that he was a terrorized opposition, fearful of the victors' vengeance, prepared to evacuate when the departure of the foreign strike removes official protection.

At 4 a. m., 70 per cent of the balloons had been cut and the Saar labor disputes bill was introduced.

It appeared from the counting room balcony that only one occasionally was found a ballot not marked for the return to the Reich. Stimulation of suspense was entirely lacking.

Today, the word of Albert S. Osborn, the internationally-known expert who accused Hauptmann of being the ransom writer, was bolstered by that of Eldridge W. Stein, another authority on disputed documents.

Stein's cross-examination ended when court adjourned for the day.

Stein Osborn Agree.

Both said they believed the ransom notes and Hauptmann's conceded written.

Austrian Sues Ex-Wife For Daughter's Upkeep

VIENNA, Jan. 14.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of an Austrian court a man is suing his wife for alimony.

The case is doubly unique because the plaintiff is the well-known deaf and dumb daughter of Gustavus Ambros, who has had three wives.

Ambros seeks alimony from his wife, Mrs. Demorgem, largely, his contention goes, for support of their daughter, whom she agreed to maintain as a part of their divorce agreement.

lawyer's defense threats at his record with the remark that his testimony had been overruled perhaps scores in 20 times—"so infrequently that it always gives me a shock."

Then he said the likeness between Bruno's hand and that of the ransom notes was irresistible, unanswerable and overwhelming.

The florid Reilly hammered away hard at Miss Alexander, who said she was 26 and a model for "tea gowns, negligees and pajama ensembles."

He failed to shake the identification of Hauptmann as the man she saw at the Bronx station, at the Central station and again on the street two or three evenings later.

At one point, irked by state objections to his line of questioning, the defense lawyer turned to the court and declared:

"I want to prove that she was never

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonsfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LEGION BONUS BILL IS GIVEN TO HOUSE

Cash Payment, Cancellation of Interest on Previous Loans Urged.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The American Legion's bonus bill was introduced in the house today, splitting into at least two well-defined groups the congressmen who want to pay off the adjusted compensation certificates with cash.

Representative Vinson, democrat, Kentuckian, was chosen by the Legion to drop its bill into the hopper. The measure called for cash payment, cancellation of interest on loans already made, and extended from 1935 to 1945 the time in which applications for adjusted compensation certificates may be filed.

It made no provision for raising money necessary to pay the bonus. The treasury would have to borrow the funds through the issuance of bonds.

Estimating it would cost "considerably less than $2,000,000,000," Vinson predicted that "the bill will be enacted."

But Representative Patman, democrat, Texas, another leading bonus advocate, said he could not support the Legion bill.

"I'm certainly not in favor of issuing tax exempt interest bearing bonds to pay off this bonus," he said. "Fred Vinson is one of my good friends, and a friend of the veterans, but . . . if they divide us they'll lick us."

Meanwhile, Frank N. Belgrano Jr., American Legion commander, reached the capital and forthwith plunged into conference on the legislation.

The Legion in a brief statement on the Vinson bill said it "carries the mandate from the American Legion convention at Miami in full and has the endorsement of the American Legion."

Patman previously had said he had asked the Legion legislative committee to oppose his bill, if it could not support it.

"But I suppose the Legion just wanted to get its bill in," he said.

Vinson said at a press conference that he thought bonus payment would "dove-tail into the recovery program" since it would take off relief some veterans who now are getting financial aid.

STATE GUARDS WITNESS NAMES

he held, and awaited his turn at Stein.

The letter "f" as it appeared in the Hauptmann and ransom writings, also had great similarity, the positive voices expert declared.

He finished his remarks on that chart.

"Now we'll refer to the next illustration. I think it is $117," Lanigan asked, and the witness produced the next photographic chart.

Now came the chart of characters, were passed among the jurors.

"The first on the right side," he said, "refers to amounts of money."

"The placing of the dollar sign on the left of the amount comes from one who learned to write German.

Dollar Mark peculiar.

"The dollar mark itself may be peculiar. Its characteristics when gathered together from several illustrations, are significant."

The next illustration is the capital "D." he went on and cited the "significant similarity" which existed in the ransom letters and the Hauptmann writing.

The habit both the author of the ransom notes and Hauptmann of spelling New York with a hyphen between New and York was Stein's next point of comment.

"One was taken from a wrapper in which the sleeping suit was in. It had a little disconnected stroke which was intended, in my judgment, to be a hyphen."

"Now Hauptmann has written New York both with and without a hyphen. It is written in both ways in the ransom handwriting."

Specimens Identical.

He said that the capital "Y's" in both specimens of the writing of New York was the same.

The capital "N" in the word New York in both the ransom and Hauptmann were strikingly similar, he said.

Q. Does that indicate disguise the letter "K"?

A. In at least two of those cases, the writer did not make that stroke coming back to the left. It was well from an intention to disguise.

"In my judgment all of these 'K's' with the curving back to the left does not point to another writer but an attempt to disguise."

Stein turned to a new photographic chart, showing further similarities between the Hauptmann and ransom handwriting.

A few minutes later he was pointing out the peculiarities of both ransom and Hauptmann writing in connection with the letters "S" and "P".

A five-minute recess was taken at 2:30 p.m.

The audience grew listless at the technical testimony, but the four women and eight men followed him with close attention on the photographic charts with which they had been supplied.

He turned next to the letter "x."

"Every 'x' in the ransom letters has been made in a most peculiar way."

"They are made with two small loops. Some look like a small 'u' and some like to small 'e's."

"They are made the same way in the Hauptmann writings."

"The 'x' seems to be a modification of the Latin script 'x'."

Unique Form.

"This 'x' is unique form, for I've never seen it in any writing. This is a further reason for my belief that the writer of the Hauptmann writing wrote the ransom notes."

A new chart was given to the jurors, and they listened to his discourse on the similarity between the small "o's" of the two handwritings under comparison.

When he finished his remarks he said:

"When all these things were considered in their cumulative effect, I am forced to conclude quite positively that the writer of the Hauptmann writing was the writer of the ransom notes."

C. Lloyd Fisher, of the defense counsel, on cross-examination, asked Stein to name some cases in which he had testified.

"I testified," Stein replied, "in the Hall Mills case right here in Somerville; in the Odierio case in the Bronx; in the Walls case in Brooklyn; in the Shousha case in Pittsburgh."

He added: "These, you understand, were all homicide cases."

Qualifications Challenged.

Fisher put a series of questions to support his theory that "anybody can be a handwriting expert."

"You have no qualifications to meet to be a handwriting expert?"

"A. Well, I should say yes."

Messenger Boys Strike When Court Convenes

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 14. (AP)—The great Hauptmann trial messenger boy strike is over.

It ended abruptly after court adjourned for the day, with both telegraph companies agreeing to raise the salary of messengers from $1 to $1.50 an eight-hour day.

The strike began at a strategic time, promptly as court convened this morning. The messengers refused to take their posts and news items writing the running account of the trial found no room. Their copy out to telegraph rooms. A half dozen messengers, the boys and telephone company officials took place, and it was agreed the controversy would be discussed after court. The boys returned to their posts.

Nation Today Honors Mark Twain Memory

HANNIBAL, Mo., Jan. 14. (AP)—A nation tomorrow will pay tribute to Samuel L. Clemens, a Mississippi river boat pilot who became Mark Twain, humorist. The centennial celebration will continue until his 100th birthday anniversary, November 30.

President Roosevelt of Washington will present a golden key to illuminate light on Cardiff Hill, where Tom Sawyer dreamed of the day he would become a second Robin Hood.

In the Clemens home at Hannibal, where personal belongings of the writer are gathered, Governor Guy B. Park, of Missouri, and George E. Clemens, son of Clemens and president of the Missouri Historical Society, will speak. From Detroit will come the voice of the author's daughter, Mme. Clara Clemens Gabrilowitch.

Observances will be held at Florida, Mo., the little town where the writer was born, and at the University of Missouri in Columbia, where a year of special programs has been arranged.

The tribute, however, will center in Hannibal, where Tom Sawyer stole doughnuts, traded knives and worked his way into the heart of a nation as its typical boy.

U. S. CONSIDERS USE OF GEORGIA MARBLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Representative Frank Whelchel, of Gainesville, today said that a report was expected next Wednesday from Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples, director of the procurement division, treasury department, as to whether marble will be included in specifications for new postoffice buildings to be constructed by the federal government.

In behalf of Georgia marble dealers Representative Whelchel, together with Representatives Carl Vinson and M. C. Taylor, called upon Admiral Peoples to insist that the use of Georgia marble be included in the specifications for new postoffice buildings to be constructed by the federal government.

"Without knowing what is in Admiral Peoples' mind," said Representative Whelchel, "I feel confident he is trying to help the marble industry of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and other producing states and is earnestly desirous of having marble used in the construction of public buildings where this can be done on a competitive basis with other materials."

DR. EUGENE DANIEL, 85, PASSES AT EATONTON

Dr. Eugene Daniel, 85, prominent retired Presbyterian minister and uncle of Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, of Eatonton, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Thomas, of Eatonton, Ga.

Dr. Daniel's work in the Presbyterian pastorate included 10 years' service at Fernandina, Fla., 18 years at Raleigh, N. C., and 12 years at Louisville, W. Va. He has been living at Eatonton for the last 16 years with his daughter, Mrs. James Thomas, of Eatonton, Ga.

Dr. Daniel is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. W. D. Dodge, Mrs. Fred Groover and Miss Roberta Daniel, of Jacksonville, Fla., and one son, John Witherspoon Daniel, of Savannah, Ga. Funeral services and burial will be conducted at Jacksonville, Fla.

Spanish Royalists Demonstrate As Infanta Weds Allessandro

ROME, Jan. 14. (AP)—The Infanta Beatriz, of Spain, who became the Princess Torlonia today by her marriage to Prince Alessandro, son of the former Elsie Moore, of New York, unwittingly was the cause of an enthusiastic royalist demonstration for her exiled father.

The young couple, who are contemplating an American honeymoon, were married at the magnificent old Church of Jesus here in the presence of scions of Europe's proudest royal families.

They wished to do this immediately, but the prospective marriage of his brother-in-law, the Infante Don Juan, to Elisabeth de Dampierre, was delayed in March, when both Alessandro and Beatriz wished to attend.

After the wedding the Hotel Excelsior in Rome was turned over to a wild monarchist demonstration. An estimated 2,500 persons who traveled a thousand miles to honor their exiled king and his daughter gave the royal family a prolonged ovation.

Immediate plans for the honeymoon are shrouded in conflicting desires of the young couple. It has been known for some time that Prince Alessandro hopes to take his bride to the United States as soon as possible.

He wished to do this immediately, but the prospective marriage of his brother-in-law, the Infante Don Juan, to Elisabeth de Dampierre, was delayed in March, when both Alessandro and Beatriz wished to attend.

Pope Plus received the newlyweds in a 20-minute audience in his private library.

The young couple quietly slipped away to Bracciano at the Alban Hills, preparatory to leaving by train tomorrow for London to see the former Queen Victoria.

Cardinal Pedro Segura, exiled prime minister of Spain, performed the wedding ceremony. Among the royal guests in the pews were King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy; Queen Elena and Prince Umberto, of Savoy, heir apparent to the throne.

It was expected the contributions to the royal wedding would total $10,000 above $5 to main themselves at home.

It was expected the contributions by employers and employees would gradually build up the reserve funds until the aid from the federal and state governments could be withdrawn.

OLD AGE PENSIONS STUDIED BY F. D. R.

Cabinet Group Recommends Maximum of $30 and Wage Assessments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. (AP)—A triple-headed old-age pension plan was contemplated today by President Roosevelt as he drafted his economic security program for Congress.

The report that went to the presidential cabinet was authoritatively said to recommend:

Joint federal-state contributions to enable old persons to maintain themselves in their homes through the ages.

It was expected the contributions by employers and employees would be used to set them up.

The federal government would contribute only to those states with pension systems whose standards measured up to $25 or $30 a month in cities, with smaller sums in small towns and rural communities.

The group covered by the compulsory old-age plan would consist of persons 65 and over.

It was expected the contributions by employers and employees would gradually build up the reserve funds until the aid from the federal and state governments could be withdrawn.

This annuity system, however, probably would cover only the low wage groups, reaching up to a limit of incomes of about $2,000 a year.

The third voluntary plan aroused a wide difference of opinion in the committees which shaped the program.

Several of the committee members favored a plan for agricultural workers whose wages are low.

The first arrangement was said to contemplate a single sum of pension ranging up to $25 or $30 a month in cities, with smaller sums in small towns and rural communities.

The federal government would contribute to the payment of old-age pensions probably on a 50-50 basis. This was to be an inducement to old-age pensioners to set them up.

The federal government would contribute only to those states with pension systems whose standards measured up to $25 or $30 a month in cities, with smaller sums in small towns and rural communities.

The presidential recommendations were expected to go to Congress about the middle of the week. There was no definite indication when the report of the cabinet committee would be made public.

There are 7,400,000 children under 18 years of age on the relief rolls of the United States.

NEW ROBINSON CLUE PROVES GROUNDBREAKING

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 14.—(P)—Summons to St. Petersburg today on a report that T. H. Robinson Jr., of Indianapolis, sought for the kidnapping several months ago of Mrs. Alice Stoll, Louisville, Ky., had been seen when the lawyer returned here yesterday with the statement that their mission had been a wild goose chase.

Four deputy marshals investigated the report. They did not say whether they questioned the man believed to be Robinson and dismissed the whole matter with the statement that it was "just another wild rumor."

HEARST ASSAILED BY COLLEGE EDITORS

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(P)—The editors of 14 college newspapers today issued a statement condemning William Randolph Hearst's criticism of radicalism in the colleges as "the vanguard of fascism in America."

"Mr. Hearst is a menace to the academic freedom which students and faculty have fought so hard to preserve," the statement read. "Mr. Hearst declares that he is seeking to keep the mind of youth 'clean and wholesome.' We contend that he is advocating the academic goose-step."

Ask Your Doctor First, Mother

Before You Give Your Child an Unknown Remedy to Take

According to any doctor you may ask, there is one duty every mother owes her child. The duty of asking him before giving her child an unknown remedy to take.

Yet, unthinkingly, every day mothers violate this simple rule. Take the advice of unqualified persons—instead of their doctors'—on remedies for their children. If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take the chance.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the very frequently used "milk of magnesia," authorities stand solidly together. Ask your own doctor about this. For over 50 years, doctors whose life work it is to study the safety and quality of drugs that go into the home, have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia" for your child.

For "Phillips'" is the result of over a half century of continuous laboratory experiment. And is rated among the finest products that science knows in its field, the kind of product your child deserves.

So Always Say "Phillips'" when you buy. And see that your child gets what you ask for—Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this for your own peace of mind.

Also in Tablet Form:
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of one fluid ounce of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this for your own peace of mind.

TALMADGE BILLS GIVEN ASSEMBLY

Regents' Measure Will Kill PWA Loan, Asserts Weltner.

sition to it. However, after the state department of education, which apparently had attempted to halt the loan, the plans of the regents were approved by the supreme court and final contracts between the regents and the PWA are now being formulated.

Bill Part of Program.

Speaker Rivers and President Redwine said that they had introduced the bill solely because the governor had included it with the others in his program.

Under the terms of the proposal the powers of the regents are generally curtailed and the properties and various incomes, including those from fees and other revenues, were made the properties of the state. Its certain that the Georgia court held that the board of regents was a separate corporation and that it could pledge revenues, other than general appropriations, to repay the PWA loan. The bill would dissolve the regents as a separate corporation.

The bills, which were offered simultaneously in both houses, were referred to the committees in the state of the republic. Representative H. B. Edwards of Lowndes county, is chairman of the house committee, and is expected to steer Talmadge legislation through that body. Senator Lamar Rucker, of Athens, seat of the university, is expected to head the senate committee, although no detailed announcement has been made regarding committee by Senator Redwine.

Unanimous With Measure.

Members of both the senate and house committees said that they had not been advised of the university measure and that they did not know its contents. Only the captions of bills are read on first reading. Although it was generally expected that the governor's program would be speedily adopted it could not be learned Monday night what attitude would be taken toward the bill.

The other bills are generally conceded adoption even among the few members of both houses known as opponents of the governor.

List of Talmadge Bills.

These measures follow in the order of their introduction and they are to be considered in that order:

1. According to the governor's executive order fixing the price of all automobile tags at $3 each for 1933, 1934 and 1935.

2. Providing a permanent $3 tag for all motor vehicles except those used on farms.

3. Diversions of $2,000,000 in accrued highway funds to apply on the unpaid salaries to common school teachers and unpaid pensions to Confederate veterans and their widows.

4. Abolition of the office of state veterinarian. This bill would provide that the commissioner of agriculture take over the functions of state veterinarian and provide whatever veterinarian may need from time to time out of his regular compensation. The bill would definitely put out of office Dr. J. M. Sutton, who was ousted last year, but who has been fighting in the courts to regain his old post.

5. The fifth measure is the regents bill.

Tax Refunds Provided For.

6. A bill providing a regular appropriation of no less than $10,000 for income tax refunds. This would lease a fund of $200,000 now held in the treasury as an income tax refund sinking fund. Under the terms of the new bill all used would revert to the general treasury.

7. Providing for establishment of a state highway patrol system, a drivers' license and a radio system for the patrol. The adjutant general would select all personnel. Under the bill the number of personnel would be determined by the governor, who also would fix the salary of members of the patrol. The drivers' license fee would be $1. The adjutant general is to issue all applications and decide qualifications. He can suspend the license if he sees fit.

8. Providing a four-year term for the commissioner of agriculture.

9. Providing a four-year term for the commissioner of commerce and labor.

4-Year Term for Governor.

10. Providing a four-year term for the governor, and making him ineligible for re-election and providing a four-year term for other constitutional officers, including the secretary of state, comptroller general, state treasurer, prison commissioner and attorney-general. The bill fixes the salary of the governor at the present figure, $7,500 a year.

11. Providing for a lieutenant governor.

12. Making the lieutenant governor the presiding officer of the state senate.

13. Giving the governor authority to limit the length of a special session of the legislature in his call for the session.

14. Making the office of state school superintendent a four-year term. At present the superintendent is officially known as the school commissioner, but the new bill would officially give him the title he has had unofficially for years. There is no change in salary.

No Comment on Bills.

There was no comment from the floor of either house as the presiding officers introduced the Talmadge bills and referred them to committee.

However, according to Rep. Representative Lindsay, whose seat was taken from him by the democratic state convention and who won it back in the general election, asked for an amendment to the rules which Representative Roy V. Harris, of Richmond county, vice chairman of the rules committee, and Representative Edwards, also of Richmond county, spoke in opposition to the amendment. Lindsay denied the charge.

After Harris and Edwards and Representative J. W. Culpepper of Fayette, and Representative Wilmer D. Lanier, also of Richmond county, spoke in opposition to the amendment, Lindsay withdrew.

Under the terms of the Lindsay amendment a constitutional majority of 100 votes would be necessary to accept an article amendment to the bill.

Under the rules the majority of quorum present may vote to accept an amendment. Lindsay said he was offering it with a view toward preventing the senate from taking on an amendment and getting it through the house with a majority of a quorum something which the house would not produce 100 votes to pass as a bill itself.

As soon as the amendment was offered Harris and Edwards, both Talmadge wheel-horses, leaped to their feet and Speaker Rivers recognized Harris.

"Trick of Obstructionist."

"We knew this was coming," Harris fairly shouted. "It is a trick of this obstructionist. He wants things fixed so that his minorities will be able to

With Georgia's Lawmakers...

It took two judges to swear in the members of the house Monday but only one in the senate. Judges W. Frank Jenkins and John B. Quarry, of the court of appeals, served the house and Justice Samuel Atkinson, of the supreme court, did the honors in the senate.

Speaker Rivers started something new in the house. He had a special section of the gallery blocked off for the wives and other members of the families of the members. And to be in charge of the section he appointed a housewife. The lady named is Mrs. Eloise Hodges, of Hartwell.

Hugh Skelton, of Hartwell, assistant secretary of the late senate, opened the session of the upper body Monday morning. The 1933 secretary, John T. Boileau, died last year. Skelton served until the election of Senator Charles D. Redwine as president.

The floors of both house and senate were crowded with visitors Monday. The presiding officers granted

MAYOR NAP RUCKER TO HAVE RUM STORE IF KEY WINS FIGHT

The Napoleon of Roswell politics, "Nap" Rucker, famous old major, recently pitched a record-shattering 182 votes, including his own. That figure represents the number of persons who cast ballots in the Roswell city election.

Shortly after his election, Rucker issued his mayoral proclamation if he retained his key.

Edwards jumped up and in his characteristic style tore into Lindsay, charging that he was attempting to wreck the Talmadge program at the outset.

"We have been watching for something like this," Hell Bent Blazed.

"This house will kill the Talmadge program right now if it votes for this.

The veteran Culpepper chimed in with "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts," and Lanier, widely known as a constitutional authority, also urged members to vote against the bill.

Amendment Withdrawn.

All except Lanier were bitter in their denunciation of Lindsay and when the call for a vote had been made the DeKalb man withdrew the amendment.

It was the only break in the session in either house. Everything had gone smoothly in both the senate and the house and Lindsay himself had been among those who seconded the nomination of Speaker Rivers, with whom he had many a tussle in the 1933 session.

Chairman Edwards said that his committee would meet in a day or two to give consideration to the Talmadge measures.

Because some of them are revenue-raising measures, he said, he will wait on action, but by introducing them through Senator Redwine the governor can get them studied immediately by committees and pave the way for early action on them immediately after the house has had its say.

The dinner was presided over by Senator G. Everett Milligan, of Atlanta, who played host along with Representatives W. B. Hartsfield, Bond Almand and Ralph Ramsey.

Other speakers included former Governor M. S. Simon, President Charles D. Redwine, of the state senate; Speaker of the House E. D. Rivers and Hugh Howell, chairman of the democratic executive committee.

Walter Connolly Stars in 'Father Brown, Detective'

Walter Connolly, long noted for his excellent work in silent screen, scores another hit in his new picture, "Father Brown, Detective," now showing at the Capitol theater. One would think that a picture of such an uninteresting sounding title would be just as uninteresting to see, but "Father Brown, Detective" holds one's attention to the end.

Gertrude Michael, one of the screen's most beautiful blondes, is due much credit for any success that this film may enjoy. Her work throughout is excellent. Another of the screen's great actors—Paul Lukas—deals with one Fleambeau, now meets and falls in love with Evelyn, portrayed by Miss Michael, and promises her the famous "Flying Stars," a set of beautiful diamonds, part of which are in the hands of Father Brown, the priest, played by Walter Connolly. During Fleambeau's efforts to steal the gems, Father Brown converts the crook to a happy ending. Best shot of picture—Walter Connolly hiding the jewels in a glass of milk.

The Capitol's stage presentation this week is Marjorie Moore's "All-American Revue," featuring the most beautiful and varied costumes of ceremony, and her California stage bands. The review is above the average and should enjoy a successful week at Manager Earl Holden's playhouse. The famous Butters troupe, a quartet of wire walkers and dancers, were to be the best attraction of the stage offering.

A Popeye comedy, "The Newswearl" and other short subjects complete a well-balanced program that should keep the Capitol well filled with patrons this week. —S. C.

New Acts Win Favor On Burlesque Stage

A new strip sensation, a new comedian, a couple of new chorus girls, and some dancing girls in the troupe combine to make the current offering at the Atlanta theater this week a fast-moving and tuneful show. It is billed as "Vine, Women and Song" and is under the direction of Pierre Dale.

Nora Ford, direct from the east, is a strip artist who sings dances and strips in a manner never before seen or heard in Atlanta. Snookie Woods, the Atlanta favorite of long standing, does her veil dance which captivates the audience. Tamara Reino also does a pleasing strip and plays the drums as well. U.S. AID ASSURED TO COMBAT WORM

Yeomans Leaves Capital With Promise of Congressional Action.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—After a series of conferences with congressional leaders and departmental heads State Entomologist M. S. Yeomans returned to Atlanta today satisfied that ample appropriations will be forthcoming from congress to combat ravages of the screw worm against live stock in Georgia and other southeastern states.

While a number of measures have already been introduced on the subject in both houses, Georgia's delegation members have decided to concentrate their efforts on the agricultural department appropriation bill, feeling that approval of funds can be expedited by following that course than pressing for a separate authorization. Hearings on the bill are to begin within a few days.

Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, a member of the house appropriations body, said today he was prepared to ask the committee to approve any screw worm fund that may be required for eradication and educational work. When the committee is ready to consider the agricultural supply bill he will ask to have Mr. Yeomans summoned as a witness, along with experts of the department here who have been studying the pest for some time.

Will Prepare Report.
Before returning today Mr. Yeomans said that upon getting back to his office in Atlanta and before returning to Washington he would prepare a special report for Judge Tarver setting forth the needs of the situation in the state and making a specific recommendation as to the funds to be appropriated. On the basis of information now available he estimates that $150,000 to $200,000 will be required in Georgia alone if live-stock owners are to be adequately protected.

The program to be recommended to congress, however, will take into account the needs of other southeastern states where evidence of screw worm activities have been found.

The state entomologist brought to Washington with him a collection of some 60 photographs showing graphically the damage done to Georgia by the worm. All members of congress from the southern states were invited to see the exhibition. Representative Tarver was so impressed with the exhibits that he has asked that they be shown to the appropriations committee when it comes to consider the screw worm legislation.

Both Senator Walter F. George and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, have taken a leading hand in the situation and are pooling their efforts with house delegation members in pressing for early relief.

Conferred With Strong. Bishop.

During his stay in Washington State Entomologist Yeomans conferred extensively with Dr. Lee A. Strong, chief of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, and Dr. F. C. Bishop, chief of the division of insects of the department of agriculture. Both officials have assured him of their full co-operation in working out a practical program.

Representative Carl Vinson, of Millidgeville, dean of the state group, said today that all members of the Georgia group will be available for going before the appropriation committee when the agricultural supply bill comes up. He agreed that the most expeditious course open was through an amendment of the department appropriation bill.

"Otherwise," said Mr. Vinson, "action might be delayed until late in the session." The department of agriculture is the proper agency to administer the funds because of the many experts it has on screw worm eradication and education work. The state delegation will concentrate its efforts in this direction.

Representative Eugene Cox, of Carrollton, high ranking member of the important rules committee, was another Georgia member who pledged

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies so seldom give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of piles is intestinal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts lifeless?

You know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leavenworth and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, and removes the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is successful in even the most stubborn cases that Jacobs Drug Stores and all good druggists advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today—take them as directed—they if not completely satisfied with results—your money back.—(adv.)

THE SAAR AGAIN GERMAN

As was anticipated, Sunday's plebiscite in the Saar has returned that rich and populous territory to Germany by a sweeping majority.

The result is not surprising, since the population of the Saar is overwhelmingly German, and it has been evident for months that the voting would favor a return of the area to Germany. The Nazis were not slow to make good use of these early prospects of victory and staged an intense, although undercover, campaign of intimidation. The leaders of the opposition, and the Jews of the Saar, were made to realize that if Berlin gained control they would soon be headed for concentration camps.

It is not probable, however, that the protest of Max Braun, leader of the opposition to the Nazis, will be given serious consideration by the League. It is manifest that a majority of the people of the Saar want to be reunited with Germany, and that even if, as charged by Braun, the plebiscite was "neither free, uninfluenced nor secret," the only effect was a larger majority for the Nazis.

There is genuine cause for gratification, not only in Europe but throughout the world, over the return of the Saar to Germany. It corrects another territorial maladjustment resulting from the provisions of the treaty of Versailles. One of the most troublesome of these situations, resulting in the division of Germany in order that the so-called Polish corridor to the sea might be created, has been at least temporarily eased by recent negotiations between Germany and Poland.

In central Europe the story is different, with Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and other nations disgruntled and dissatisfied with their new territorial limits. One of the hopeful features of the Saar plebiscite result is that, with this troublesome problem permanently settled, the major nations of Europe can give more attention to plans for bringing about the peaceful conditions in middle Europe it was hoped would result from the plans worked out at Versailles.

THAT $200 A MONTH

D. Townsend, the 68-year-old country doctor who abandoned his profession to become a champion of the aged, and who has achieved a peculiar sort of fame by promulgating his suggestion that the government pay every citizen over 60 years of age a pension of $200 a month, has moved his headquarters from California to Washington and is now actively engaged in an endeavor to convince representatives and senators that they should enact his plan into a law of the land.

Inferentially it is to be presumed that the good doctor would be very happy if President Roosevelt would make his plan a part of the New Deal, but it would appear that the president has his own ideas on old-age pensions, and that they are financially sound, whereas the doctor's plan is as wild as the dream of a confirmed Utopian.

Dr. Townsend claims to have attracted millions to his plan. He has been told time and again that his scheme is as impossible as buying the moon and cutting it up as green cheese for the benefit of the poor and hungry; but that makes no never-mind to him. He just waves aside impossible financial angles that are mentioned by experts, advancing other unsound methods of action to surmount the objections of financiers.

Nothing is impossible to the dreamer whose brain convolutions become heated when imagination runs wild.

This entire matter would be humorous but for the sad side that is presented by a dreamer playing on the hopes of aged men and women, who, either through infirmity or ignorance of finances, have come to believe in the possibility of Dr. Townsend's wild scheme.

That the congress will eventually enact an old-age pension law is generally believed, but when it does the pension plan will be sound and the amount of pension to be paid will not require so material a part of all the property in the United States to make the first payment.

A MISTAKEN PROTEST

Had President Green, of the Federation of Labor, been in possession of the full facts concerning the situation now existing at Ross-ville, Ga., and the threats of violence prevalent for the past two weeks in this mill community, he would scarcely have protested Governor Talmadge's action in calling out the militia, or the protest would have been couched in less objectionable terms.

Despite the evident seriousness of the situation at Ross-ville, the governor deferred calling out the state guard when first asked to do so by the peace officers of the territory affected, until the necessity for the imposition of martial law could be investigated by the judge of the superior court of the territory affected.

Only after several days' delay, while matters grew worse instead of better, did the governor accede to the request of both the sheriff and the judge and call out the state guard.

Instead of the governor's action being hasty, as charged by President Green, as "an unjustifiable exercise of executive power," indicating "bias in favor of the mill owners," it was taken reluctantly, and only after had been clearly established that troops were necessary to avoid violence and probably bloodshed, and to safeguard the inalienable right of men and women to work when and where they desire.

It was for similar reasons that the governor called out the state guard to put an end to the inexcusable "flying squadrons" that spread terror and destruction during the recent nation-wide textile strike.

For his prompt and firm action in meeting this threat to the peace of the state, and in upholding the right of American citizens to work when and under whatever conditions they desire, he received widespread and well-merited commendation.

The right to strike and the right to picket are guaranteed to American labor, but these two rights must not be abused by the introduction of violence, either for the purpose of forcing employers to accede to the demands of their employees, or to prevent workmen satisfied with their employment from continuing at their jobs.

Regardless of the merits of the controversy between the owners of the mill at Ross-ville and the group of dissatisfied employees, it is unfair and unjust to criticize the governor for calling out the militia to take charge in a situation manifestly threatening to both the life and the property of citizens of the state, and to their inalienable right to work when and where, and under whatever conditions, they please.

President Green has been misinformed of conditions in the affected area, or else he would not have departed from his usual wise and level-headed course to charge that the governor is influenced by "powerful financial interests." No man in public life in America has proven himself as completely free from such influence as has Governor Talmadge.

Certainly there can be no criticism from impartial sources of the determination of the governor of Georgia to "protect the peace and welfare of the citizens of the state, and the inalienable right of Georgians to work without molestation or intimidation."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Treatment of Prisoners.

A British officer, Captain W. S. Shewmake, makes an interesting suggestion in the London Times. He says that the chief blunder of the Germans during the war was their treatment of prisoners. That intelligent people, of any nationality, should treat prisoners of war badly is an amazing blunder. It infuriates their comrades and introduces an unnecessary note of bitterness. "I would treat prisoners of war so well and make them so comfortable," says the captain, "that all their comrades would pine to join them. These things leak out. Soldiers are human and if given the chance of escaping the horrors of war for the comforts of home," they would jump at it."

It is an excellent suggestion and well worth considering by the various war offices. But I think the captain's remarks rest upon a serious error. We all hear stories of the treatment of prisoners by the Germans, but never from the prisoners themselves. To say that prisoners were badly treated was part of the war-time propaganda. I questioned a British officer on the subject who was a prisoner in Germany for three years. He was a soldier in the British Expeditionary Force which was sent to the heart of Africa shortly. He says he was treated with unfailing courtesy and even when he made attempts to escape only was punished with two or three days' house arrest, usually with a handshake and a "better luck next time."

The captain's story of what he heard from hundreds of others. It is true many prisoners went short of food, but there was no food in Germany in those days and the civilian population itself suffered dreadful privations.

New Year's Cards.

You will see the New Year's cards of several men now very prominent in the world's affairs you would be surprised to see the change. For instance, in 1914, it was "Joseph Pilсудski, editor of The Socialist Worker of Cracow." Now it is dictator of Poland, who has put on his distinguishing cards if he sports any such things. Benito Mussolini was editor of the socialist paper Avanti and member of the Second International of Labor, the socialist international. Today there isn't a more determined foe of socialism than that world champion Adolf Hitler. When in 1923, Captain Adolf Hitler had a sign up on his house saying, "Contract Work in House Painting." The same man is now master of Germany and almost deified. Kemal Pasha was a colonel in the army of the sultan in 1914 and languishing in a foul jail for having taken part in a plot. Today he is Kemal Ataturk, the new title which corresponds to "Father of the Turkish Nation."

One could go on. Kyril Romanoff commanded an army corps in 1914; today he lives in a lonely country villa in France and calls himself King of God. Another consequence of humanity? I don't know what Stalin was doing in 1914, but I have a suspicion it wasn't anything very creditable. Trotsky, always an intellectual and a brilliant writer, was editor in New York of a Russian paper. Strange, isn't it, that all these fellas seem to be dictators when censorship and violence at their elbow's end, were nearly all editors themselves once. It shows you that they know that the printed word is a power. It is such power in fact that it will sweep all those dictatorships into the discard some day.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

OL' DOC BRADY TAKES UNTO HIMSELF A NEW DEGREE. Every time I receive a letter from a college professor—so he'd be astonished at the volume of correspondence college folk have with this column—I throw back my hair, figuratively speaking, and wonder whether some college will one day give me an honorary degree for my services as a professor. Certainly I've saved a lot of the credulous professors from being gyped by charlatans and nostrum exploiters, and I've educated many of them in elementary physiology. Too bad Brad's Health Talk was not available in the gay nineties, when the slickers were getting the simple professors to sign testimonials to efficacy of glorified cottage cheese as a "nerve tonic."

Even if some institution should desire to confer an honorary degree in acknowledgment of my philanthropy the chances are the degree would be of little practical use. So we have decided to establish with the help of our friends and I now serve notice that from now on my full name is—William Brady, M. D., D. P. M.—oh, I might affix long string of letters to that, but I wish to focus attention particularly on the D. P. M.

I scrutinized the degree carefully before I signed it. I know that I don't care to tempt the witscrazers more than I can help. Even so, I expect to receive a hundred messages giving the three or four possible interpretations of the meaning of these letters. They actually mean Doctor of Preventive Medicine.

Every doctor in actual practice practices preventive medicine. I have no doctor who limits his practice to preventive medicine. People simply can't save such a specialist—as yet. People are too dumb to recognize the value of preventive medicine—the economic value. They hate like the devil a man who doesn't know 'em, a leg of mutton, and no doctor can afford to limit his practice to preventive medicine.

Buffalo cows stood shoulder to shoulder to repel attack when their calves were threatened.

But men are unique in this: that compassion prompts them to shield and to save the weak who have no rightful claim upon them except their need.

This is the quality that distinguishes men from beasts. This is the measure of a civilization.

By this each man is measured to determine how far he has come from the jungle.

And the perfection of this quality is the ultimate goal of mankind.

The time is coming when the chief desire of every proper man will be to serve his fellows.

How can we know that is true? Because it is nature's plan to perfect the characteristic traits of a species; because the universal plan of man, and finally, because innate selfishness prompts men to do the thing they most enjoy doing.

Study man's history, from the time of human sacrifices to the time when scientists sacrifice themselves to save others, and you find a story of ever-growing compassion.

The brutality of the young race gave way to kindness, as youth's brutal intolerance gives way to the understanding sympathy of age.

And if the race of man grows more compassionate through 10,000 generations of development, who can doubt that its ultimate goal is complete perfection?

To selfishness, basis of all motives and unflinching guide from cradle to grave, it functions still when it prompts unselfishness, and in the end justifies itself by teaching man to be compassionate because he finds in service a joy and contentment found nowhere else.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

POSE? WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Norman Davis returned from the full London naval conversations exuding optimism and hope.

The roving ambassador told newsmen he did not expect a naval race but confidently believed an ultimate agreement is probable. What he told them off the record cannot be repeated, but it is no violation of confidence to disclose that it was even more roseate.

No one here will believe him—that is, no one in the state and navy departments and, perhaps, even the White House. There is a widespread suspicion that Mr. Davis' optimism is a diplomatic pose, and that his hope is diplomatic slush. The capable ambassador-at-large has been a diplomat so long that his best friends suspect he is beginning to believe the things he says.

REALISM A fair statement of the way this government looks at the naval situation from the inside is this: If the British and the Americans would promise to give the Japanese the right to full supply at the end of a definite period, say, five or ten years, a compromise might be reached. We will not agree to that. The Japanese will not take anything less.

Our authorities generally are convinced of the seriousness of Japanese intentions. They say the Japanese have let us know in many little ways that they intend to get the right to parity in the future, and, if we do not want to give it to them, they will take it.

RACE? The conviction is widespread that 1936 will be the crucial period of post-war naval history. We are not going to start the race. When the treaty expires, we will go along building and replacing in accordance with the program laid down in the treaty. If a naval race is started, it will be by the Japanese. If they build one ship above the 5-5-3 ratio, then the race is on. In that event, our authorities are planning to get congress to agree to a sliding-scale building program under which we can maintain a strength of 5 to 3 against the Japanese.

FACE-SAVING Few well-informed persons place much faith in the interesting story coming over from London by unofficial word-of-mouth cable. This yarn is to the effect that the Japanese delegates gave the impression when they left London that they were willing to enter any kind of agreement to save their faces back home. They were supposed to be going home with the idea of trying to sell their government the British compromise proposal. This proposal is that each of the powers publicly announce its building program for a period of years and agree not to change the program without giving advance notice.

The program would be based, of course, on the 5-5-3 relationship. Japan would be granted in principle the right to build up to full naval parity but she must hold her announced program within the 5-5-3 ratio, although everyone would agree never to mention the word "ratio" again. In other words, Japan would re-pudiate the theoretical right to parity providing she promised not to exercise it.

It is probably true that the Japanese do not want a race, because they know we could outbuild them. They want to restrict us and the British, if they can. Also, they need a diplomatic victory for home consumption. But whether they would accept this grand idea is something else again.

The yarn has reached the biggest officials' ears here. Frankly, they have not been impressed.

WEAPONS Another sub rosa yarn from London is the one that our officials at the conference asked the Japanese at one point to define what they considered to be "offensive weapons of war." The Japanese thought about it a while and replied that battleships, heavy cruisers and aircraft carriers should be so classified.

The Japanese then asked us to offer our definition of offensive weapons. The comeback made by one of our delegates was this classic: "Any weapon is offensive when you are in front of it and defensive when you are behind it." The Japanese have not quite figured that one out yet.

GOLD The supreme court gold case has stimulated fantastic estimates of contracts outstanding calling for payment in gold. Some published estimates run up as high as $300,000,000, an inconceivable figure. No one knows precisely what the amount is, but the best guess of the best authority here is $100,000,000,000. That is nearly 10 times as much gold as there is in the world.

The use of gold can best be understood by likening it to chips in a poker game. The chips do not represent the amount of money in the game or even the amount which changes hands. The chips are merely the exchange medium and are used again and again.

NOTES The clearest budgetary survey submitted by any government department was that of Labor Secretary Perkins. She listed what she wanted to use her increases for, in such a way that they could be understood.

The government is going to spend $8,000 more next year to keep the Indians away from firewater. The budget calls for $5,880 for the noble purpose of "suppressing the liquor traffic" among the red men, but not a nickel is included for that purpose among white men.

Mr. Ickes' appetite for investigating people and things is not on the wane. His interior department bureau of investigations is getting an increase of $30,000, mostly for salary increases, in the new budget, and will spend nearly $400,000 next year.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—In its first direct attack on the Gracewood school for mental defectives at Augusta, the American Liberty League asserted today that "three features" of the federal budget for the fiscal year 1936 are of a highly disturbing character.

Joint Shouse, league president, has reiterated that the organization, which includes Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis among its founders, and the New Deal, is not to blame. The joint statement issued today caused little stir, in or out of administration circles.

The league listed the three "disturbing" budget factors as:

- "To return to a level of regular expenditures as high as that which existed in the depression occasioned by the end of continued treasury deficits."
- "To provide a charter amendment for Augusta by the Richmond delegation."
- "To reorganize the Jenkins county board of commissioners."

A bill to set terms of the state board of education, capitalizing on the income from the tax, was referred to the Gracewood school for mental defectives at Augusta and the balance placed in the general treasury.

A number of other house bills were introduced at the opening session. Their numbers will be announced today.

Other Bills Introduced.

The bills follow:

- A bill creating a judicial council. By Representative Peters, of Meriwether county.
- A bill providing a charter amendment for the city of Augusta. By the Richmond delegation.
- A bill to classify and tax intangibles. By the Richmond delegation.
- A second bill to provide a charter amendment for Augusta. By the Richmond delegation.
- A bill to permit motor and railroad carriers to employ special drivers. By Representative Spivey, of Emanuel county.
- A bill to reorganize the Jenkins county board of commissioners. By Harris of Jenkins.
- A bill to set terms of the state board of education, capitalizing on the income from the tax, was referred to the Gracewood school for mental defectives at Augusta and the balance placed in the general treasury.
- A bill to provide for the investment of trust funds in federal government bonds. By Cohen of Chattooga.
- A bill to set terms of the state board of accountants. By Speaker Riviere and Speaker Pro Tem, Arnall.
- A bill simplifying the functions of the state executive department. By Stewart of Clarke.
- Book Commission. By Joel of Clarke.
- A bill setting up a bureau of criminal identification to go with the state highway patrol sponsored by Governor Talmadge. By Representative Asley of DeKalb county.
- A bill to set terms of state police. By Sutton of Wilkes.
- A bill empowering the state police to compose a highway patrol. By Sutton of Wilkes.
- A bill to supervise holding companies. By Salter of Baldwin.
- A bill authorizing motor or horse drawn to carry a tail-light. By Corson of Long.
- A bill to fix the salary of the chairman of the highway board at $6,000 a year, a salary which Chairman W. E. Wilburn is now drawing by action of the board. By Musgrove, of Clinch.
- Other Bills in Senate.

In addition to the Talmadge bills in the senate, which were introduced by President Redwine, several other bills were offered there.

Senator Skelton of Hartwell, offered a bill to fix the primary for all state and county offices for the second Wednesday in August instead of mid-September, as was done in 1935. This would have Fulton (Atlanta) county as a one-county senatorial district, the 25th.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Huey Long WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14.—Information came to hand from New Orleans that Huey P. Long's recent patriotic fight against the Standard Oil Company. In the latest of his Special sessions of the legislature, Huey passed a law imposing a heavy tax on oil refined in Louisiana. The oil company threatened to quit operating and move out of the state, dispossessing a large number of men. At this point, the senior senator agreed to a compromise whereby the tax is to become a sort of tariff on oil produced elsewhere. The oil companies are now taxed at $1.00 a barrel, or so, so more than a little pricking and stinging and later a bit of itching—then he is forever branded with the owner's mark and his value, for thieves, considerably lessened.

Intense Cold Wave Sweeps Over Great Lakes Territory

By the Associated Press.

The front line of winter's latest onslaught moved across the Great Lakes states Monday night, sending the mercury tobogganing toward zero and bringing the snowshoe brigade into action.

Its attack had been sharpest in Minnesotans, where the thermometer readings dropped as low as 32 below zero at Bemidji.

It was only six degrees lower in Canada's coldest spot of the day, the outpost of Moonsonee on an arm of Hudson's bay in Ontario.

Two men died, one frozen and the other a traffic accident victim, in Minnesota, and a 15-year-old youngster was found frozen to death in a shack at Symerton, Ill., his body still unbroken last night.

Show 10 inches deep blocked secondary highways in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and more snow was forecast for Friday.

Chicago winds carried the cold wave into Michigan, Indiana and Ohio where temperatures from 5 to 15 above zero were predicted for the night. Light snow fell at Detroit, and two inches were reported at Cleveland. Inaugural snowfall was expected at Toledo.

Snow flurries at Columbus to watch Governor Martin L. Davey take office.

At Chicago a sudden drop in temperature to near zero froze slush into ice sheets dangerous for traffic. The suburbs afloat from the moderating influence of Lake Michigan reported temperatures down to 10 below zero.

Snow was drifting badly in some parts of Iowa, with temperatures 10 below zero and more snow anticipated.

The mercury hovered near the freezing point at Kamloops, British Columbia, now churning to rain was predicted. Down the ridge of the Rockies from north to south the temperatures ranged from subzero in Montana to above freezing in New Mexico.

Along the Pacific coast it was mild, with occasional rain promised. Salt Lake City was warmer than normal, Texas cool, and Oklahoma in its form. Blustery winds chilled New York, where the mercury touched 20 in mid-afternoon, and the cold wave from the middle west was due during the night.

South winds, however, were breaking up the middle western cold, bringing the temperature in western Nebraska up to 49 Monday afternoon while it was still 20 above at Omaha.

Temperatures in New York predicted near-zero temperatures would follow the 40-mile-an-hour gale which raged in the city today.

Starting at 8 a. m. the temperature dropped 8 degrees to 24 in two hours and continued a gradual decline throughout the day. At 6 p. m. it was 21 above and the weatherman predicted a return to 20.

A 30-mile-an-hour northwest wind in western Massachusetts whipped Sunday night's heavy snowfall across highways as fast as they were plowed clear. With the exception of some points on the Mohawk trail, however, no serious difficulty was encountered and state police reported all main highways passable.

COURT SUSTAINS U.S. IN TWO CASES

Ordinary Contention That States' Right Were Being Infringed Rumored.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The government won preliminary and minor victories in two federal-state cases today when the supreme court reversed the ordinary contention that states' rights were being infringed.

West Virginia and Arizona were given until April 1 by the court to file the oath of governor and became the 33rd and 34th states to do so.

Arizona recently declared martial law and ordered out troops to stop construction of Parker dam by the United States.

The federal power commission and West Virginia and a number of power companies have had an extended argument over the commission's right to control hydroelectric developments on the Kanawha river.

The Electro-Metallurgical and the New Kanawha Power Companies, of Glen Ferris, W. Va., and the Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation, of New York city, were named along with West Virginia in the show-case action.

Jurisdiction Claimed.

The government claims it has exclusive jurisdiction over the power developments on the two rivers and bases that assertion on its control of navigable streams.

Arizona, refusing to recognize the authority of the power commission, declared the rivers are non-navigable.

The state also challenges the validity of the federal water power act. It granted permission to the New Kanawha Power Company to construct hydroelectric project at Hawes Neck on New river.

That company and the Electro-Metallurgical Power Company, which is now completing the work, are controlled by the United Carbide and Carbon Company.

Arizona, in rebuttal to the government, said the United States has encroached on its authority and that no further work should be done on Parker dam, which is near the Boulder dam on the Colorado river, until an agreement has been reached for the use of water at Parker dam for power development and irrigation.

Fall to Act.

The court failed to act on Tom Mooney's plea for permission to file habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his release from the California prison where he is serving a life sentence for the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco.

The court has another opinion day next Monday before it opens a two-week recess, and general opinion was that the Mooney case would receive attention before this holiday.

In a five to four decision, the court today sustained West Virginia's action in imposing a chain store tax on gasoline filling stations.

The court also agreed to take up a Texas case which involves the claim that the state has denied negroes the right to vote.

R. R. Grovey, of Harris county, Texas, a negro, claimed he was deprived of the right to vote in the democratic state primaries in 1934. The court will review the case.

FREE COOKING SCHOOL OPENS AT HIGH'S TODAY

Under the direction of the well-known dietitian, Mrs. A. P. Boardman, a free cooking school will be conducted in the furniture department of the J. M. High Company beginning today at 2 o'clock and continuing through Friday. Mrs. Boardman's reputation for balanced menus and ways of preparing and serving balanced menus and still keeping expenditures down to a minimum is well known.

This year Mrs. Boardman possesses new recipes, tested and found delicious. Balanced menus and new recipes will be distributed to all who attend. Hundreds of women will avail themselves of this opportunity. They will attend every day for each day something new, something different will be presented. No charge is made for the school.

Farm Modernization Topic of FHA Meet

Plans for carrying the federal housing campaign of home modernization and repair into the rural section of Georgia will be discussed at a special meeting of farm representatives of that organization held here Monday.

William A. Sirmon, associate director of the FHA, presided at the meeting which was held in his office.

Plans were made to form a strong farm advisory committee organization, with announcement of the personnel expected early next week.

Mayor Key Invited To County Meeting

Mayor James L. Key was formally notified Monday that the board of county commissioners will give him a hearing Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock on his proposal that the county help the city avert a 27 per cent pay cut by bearing half the expense of operating fire and hospital departments.

At the same time letters were sent to members of the Fulton county delegation in the legislature arranging for a meeting at the same hour for discussion of the proposed bill to fix the salaries of Fulton county judges, solicitors and commissioners.

GRAVES SWORN IN AS ALABAMA CHIEF

Thousands Cheer New Executive During Spectacular Parade.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The government won preliminary and minor victories in two federal-state cases today when the supreme court reversed the ordinary contention that states' rights were being infringed.

Bibb Graves, great-great nephew of Alabama's first governor, today took the oath of governor and became the state's 43d chief executive.

Governor Graves, the only man in the past 34 years to return to the office for a second term, was sworn in by Chief Justice John C. Anderson who eight years ago administered the same oath.

In his inaugural address, Governor Graves promised a cheering crowd of thousands a progressive government and administration for "human welfare."

"The last plank in our democratic platform is one short sentence, but in it is the foundation, not only of our party platform, but the foundation of the New Deal—the New Deal is the salvation of America and the hope of mankind," the new governor said in these words.

"We advocate the continuous responsibility of government for human welfare and especially for the protection of children."

Thousands lined historic Dexter avenue. The incoming governor and the retiring governor, B. Meek Miller, were in the crowd.

Miller, refusing to recognize the authority of the power commission, declared the rivers are non-navigable.

The state also challenges the validity of the federal water power act. It granted permission to the New Kanawha Power Company to construct hydroelectric project at Hawes Neck on New river.

That company and the Electro-Metallurgical Power Company, which is now completing the work, are controlled by the United Carbide and Carbon Company.

Arizona, in rebuttal to the government, said the United States has encroached on its authority and that no further work should be done on Parker dam, which is near the Boulder dam on the Colorado river, until an agreement has been reached for the use of water at Parker dam for power development and irrigation.

Fall to Act.

The court failed to act on Tom Mooney's plea for permission to file habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his release from the California prison where he is serving a life sentence for the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco.

The court has another opinion day next Monday before it opens a two-week recess, and general opinion was that the Mooney case would receive attention before this holiday.

In a five to four decision, the court today sustained West Virginia's action in imposing a chain store tax on gasoline filling stations.

The court also agreed to take up a Texas case which involves the claim that the state has denied negroes the right to vote.

R. R. Grovey, of Harris county, Texas, a negro, claimed he was deprived of the right to vote in the democratic state primaries in 1934. The court will review the case.

Knife Is Employed To Help Gen. Calles

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—(AP)—General Plutarco Elias Calles, the "Iron Man of Mexico," underwent an operation this afternoon at St. Vincent's hospital for a gall bladder disorder.

General Calles was brought here by airplane last Tuesday from his ranch in Culiacan, Sinaloa. At first, it was believed his physician would allow a week or more to elapse before the operation in order to build up his strength.

Previous to the operation, it was stated his condition was very good and that he had responded satisfactorily to treatment given him here.

After General Calles was taken to the operating room, the following bulletin was issued by the Mexican consulate here:

"General Calles was operated on today at 3 p. m. at St. Vincent's hospital by Dr. Vernon C. Hunt, chief surgeon of the consulate, in a satisfactory manner. The attending surgeons, Dr. James L. Key Monday, and

Dr. George H. Howell, of Atlanta, were present.

Young Equestrians To Present Show Independent of Grown-Ups' Help

By Sally Forth.

MEMBERS of Atlanta's youthful society, who are listed as future belles and beaux of this city, are all agog over the pony show which these equestrians will stage Saturday, January 19, at the Biltmore riding school on the Roxboro road. Grown-ups are invited to attend the event, but the youngsters have declared hands off of their elders in the arrangements for the show. The entire affair will be managed by the group composing the riding club, whose roster of membership contains the names of children belonging to many socially prominent Atlanta families. A number of these young horseback enthusiasts have won ribbons in horse shows presented here and elsewhere; therefore they are quite capable of managing a pony show all of their own.

Young Jack Hogg has been selected as ring master for the occasion and attired in full regalia usually worn by the one in charge of the show ring will call forth the exhibitors and their mounts according to the various classes announced. Misses Nancy Calhoun and Jean Oliver have been chosen as the young judges for the show and will be assisted by Stiles Burroughs, well-known young masculine rider and one of the organizers of the Biltmore Riding Club. This trio of young equestrians are able to judge the gaits and conformation of the ponies as well as the skill

Cardui for Better Appetite

"I was so nervous and depressed, I felt like I wanted to tear my hair," writes Mrs. R. W. Kilpatrick, of Houston, Texas. "I would get ashamed of being so easily upset. I took Cardui at this time and after the third bottle, my strength began to mend. The pain was less. I quit having the depressed feeling."

A better appetite often is one of the first results of taking Cardui, and as nourishment is improved, many disagreeable symptoms of a run-down condition go away. But of course if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—(adv.)

To Have The Best Cough Remedy, Mix It At Home

Quicker Relief. Big Saving!
So Easy! No Cooking!

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because there is no other way to obtain such a dependable, effective cough remedy. It's so simple to mix—a child could do it. From any druggist, get 2% ounce of Pine, 1/2 ounce of Salvia, 1/2 ounce of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed. Put the Pine into a pint bottle and add the syrup. This gives you a fall supply of cough remedy, far superior to anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it. You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold and begins to work almost immediately. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germinated phlegm, and clears the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way. —adv.

Bob Jones To Hunt for Birds, Not Birdies, in Future

Bob Jones is coming back into competition, but it's with bird dogs, not birdies.

One of his dogs, a setter, will run in the southern amateur field trials at All-Benny, Georgia, next week.

Meanwhile, he has gone seriously into the rather difficult job of getting together some good hunting dogs. He always has been a hunter, but now he is going strong for the development of some dogs.

He was visiting with Trammell Scott on Monday morning, was Bob, telling of a hunting trip in Tennessee where a friend, his host, had eight big pointers, all of which were good hunters—so good, in fact, there was no difference in their work.

"Bob," said Trammell kindly, "says he is going to learn hit 'em if it takes ten years, and he is a little bit afraid it will take ten years. But I think it is just that he hasn't got the swing of the gun, not that he is cross-shooting them because of any aiming fault, although at that he seemed to do better shooting left-handed at skeet."

Later in the day I found Bob Jones himself.

"I'm just trying to develop some dogs that can find birds and stand steady to wing and shoot," he said. "Richard Tift has a dog he got for me and he may run him in the trials. I can't be down there, but I may get down this week to see some of the dogs in the Continental. Business will keep me away next week."

The southern amateur trials will draw the finest lot of entries in years. The local interest is in the amateur, although the better-known dogs will be running this week down at All-Benny as the Continental gets going.

THE MASTERS' TOURNAMENT.

When I encountered Bob Jones he was carrying a box of new golf clubs. Golf and guns are his present sporting interests.

He will play in the Masters' tournament beginning April 4 at the beautiful course near Augusta, the Augusta National. It is the course he helped design and is probably the most beautiful course in America.

He will play in no other tournaments. The boys won't learn, it seems. The exhibition tournaments in which Jones competed during the past few weeks revived the old, old report that he is coming back to competition. He isn't. He hasn't any idea of so doing. He never has entertained any such idea.

The Masters' tournament will find him entered each year it is played, but it is the only tournament in which he will compete.

It is his club and it is, in a sense, his tournament, since it was his idea.

THE 1935 TOURNAMENT.

Somehow the 1935 Masters' tournament appears even more interesting than the one of 1934 which saw Jones return to golf for the one tournament.

He played good golf in that tournament, finishing in a tie with Denny Shute, who was then British open champion, but his putting touch was off and his short game was a bit erratic.

He had been playing friendly rounds and shooting below par with consistency. In the tournament he found that instead of making the putts of the week before with ease and carelessness, he had begun to realize they meant something. There was an unconscious tightening up which harmed his game on the greens.

This year I don't think he will have it. I am confident he will be one, two or three in the Masters. It is ridiculous to argue that golf has moved ahead in the years Jones has been out of competition. The boys haven't really caught up with his game as yet.

So, I look for this tournament to see Jones back at or near the top. And I have a sneaking suspicion that if he can shoot 69 at the boys on the first day, or even a 70 or 71, there will be some loud explosions heard here and there on the course as it begins next year.

Never did I see such a jittery group of golfers as that last year on the first two days. When Jones was two rounds over par they got down to the business of shooting for the money. The pressure was gone. I'd like to see what it would do again.

And I think we shall see in the Masters' in April.

SOME RACING NEWS.

Cavalcade, winner of the 1934 Kentucky Derby, passes through our town this morning at a very early hour, being en route to Santa Anita, the track just outside Pasadena, Cal., for the $100,000 handicap to be run in February.

I can see Mack Garner now, sending Cavalcade to the front as they neared the stretch last spring at Churchill Downs with 70,000 people screaming for their favorites in the derby. Mata Hari had made her run and was just hanging in there. There was no challenge in the stretch, it was all Cavalcade.

Mack Gardner, who has been released by Trainer Bob Smith, who handles the stables for Mrs. Dodge Sloan, was a happy little man that day. His wife was hugging him and the crowd was jammed around, snatching the roses from his arms to keep as souvenirs. When he got to his quarters that glorious bunch of American Beauties was reduced to almost nothing. It's quite a day, Derby Day at the Downs.

LONG PRICES.

Just before the Alabama party left California the Santa Anita track saw a race in which a long shot came home to pay more than $200 for a $2 mutuel ticket. The day I was there the horses I picked paid nothing at all for a $2 ticket.

The world's record long price hails from England, where in November, 1929, a horse paid off at odds of better than 3,400 to 1. Yes, there was one bet on him. An English laborer had the equivalent of 50 cents bet and won more than $1,500 for that 50-cent piece.

The highest price in mutuel tickets in this country was Wishing Ring, who paid $1,185.50 for a $2 ticket in 1912 at Latonia.

Those things keep the suckers coming. There is always a ticket or so on every long shot in every race. Just hoping for one of those pay-offs that come once every year or so.

TURF PRESIDENT SEES GOOD YEAR FOR BIG TRACKS

Kentucky Derby Already Receiving Entries for May 4.

By Col. Matt Winn, President American Turf Association.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(P)—Thoroughbred racing will come into its own again in 1935. All signs point to it.

In my opinion, there is no sure way to maintain the decided improvement shown this last fall in many lines of business than by facing 1935 with courage and determination putting fair and honest use to the sport-loving public is always quick to respond to every evidence and generosity on the part of the various jockey clubs. When the directors of Churchill Downs increased the added money in this year's Kentucky Derby, to be held May 4, to $40,000, they were confident that the leading turfmen of America would lend their approval but that the lovers of high-class racing would give a generous response. Already entries are pouring in although blanks will not be in the mail for another week.

Among the assurances of better days and better times, the growth of racing in California with the leading handicapped horses of America competing for a $100,000 prize at Santa Anita Park, is most encouraging. It keeps pace with the decided improvement shown by all the New York tracks under liberal laws and with a high-class racing and enforcement.

The phenomenal success achieved at Narragansett Park and at Rockingham, puts New England in the front rank as a supporter of thoroughbred racing. Better attendance at the tracks means bigger purses for horsemen with the stars of the leading stable.

There is much encouragement in the continued success of Miami as a winter racing center. Tropical Park has given a first-class meeting with many of the best stable represented and with a steady increasing public patronage. All these signs indicate that racing will come into its own again in 1935.

Smithies Play Baby Jackets Wednesday

Coach Roy Mundorf, of the Georgia Tech basketball team, announced yesterday that he had completed arrangements for a preliminary game to be played prior to the Tech-Tennessee game between the strong Tech High team and the Tech Freshmen on Wednesday night.

The game will start at 7:30 o'clock and will be a curtain-raiser to the Tech-Tennessee varsity game, which will get under way about 8:30.

The Tech Freshmen boast one of the strongest and most solid squads in the nation, but in recent years lost Saturday night the Baby Jackets beat Darlington, 47-10, in their first game.

Many Atlanta fans and Tech alumni have been eager to see the Freshmen team in action and Mundorf has rounded up some real opposition for them in the Smithies.

The Techies returned to work yesterday for the Varsity. They go to Athens Saturday night of this week to meet Georgia in the first of a three-game state series.

DECATUR PLAYS FULTON AT J.P.C.

With two losses in as many starts, Decatur High's basketball team will seek to break into the win column against Fulton High at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the Jewish Progressive Club court. Fulton won over Decatur last week on the Decatur court.

Commercial High returns to Monroe to play the Bascom Marston Red team on Saturday night.

North Fulton and Russell will play a double-header at 7:30 o'clock tonight on the East Point court. The girls will play first with the boys following.

Meanwhile, other members of both the Big Four and North Georgia Inter-scholastic conference will continue regular scrimmages for games Friday afternoon and night.

Miller Released; May Go to Boston

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—(P)—Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, tonight announced the unconditional release of Bill Miller, by the "A's" so he can sign with the Boston Red Sox for next season.

Mack said he understood Miller was to play in the outfield for Boston as did with the Athletics.

Miller, released as captain of the "A's" at the close of last season, last week denied reports that he had signed as coach with the New England outfit.

Onslow Released; At Own Request

BOSTON, Jan. 14.—(P)—Jack Onslow, who coached at first base for the Boston Red Sox last season, has been given his unconditional release. General Manager Eddie Collins said it was at his own request. Onslow plans to enter the radio business.

Commissioner Calls Shot, Makes Ace

MACON, Ga., Jan. 14.—(P)—J. E. Yates, Bibb (Macon) county commissioner, called his shot in a golf match here.

"Boys," he said to the other members of his foursome, "I will show you how to make a hole-in-one shot."

He addressed the ball, swung.

The ball carried 145 yards and dropped in the cup for an ace.

Braves Seek Aid At Called Meet Set for Friday

'Homeless' Boston Club Placed in 'Lap' of Nationals.

By Eddie Brietz.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(P)—The financial plight of the homeless Boston Braves was tossed back into the limelight by the breaking of a long-term lease by the owners of Braves field, now rented to the Boston Kennel Club for dog racing this summer, and the simultaneous refusal of the Boston Red Sox to let the National leaguers share Fenway park for baseball.

To seek a solution to this vexing problem, Eddie Fuchs, president of the National league, called a special meeting of league club owners here Friday after a conference with Emil E. Fuchs, former New York magnate who has been president of the Braves since 1925. Also at today's conference were Harry Goldband, and Leo J. Bondy, an attorney. Bondy is treasurer of the New York Giants but said he was representing "outside interests."

FINANCES TANGLED.

The conferees did not reveal details of the financial entanglements of the Boston club which led to the action of the Gaffney estate, owner of Braves field, in cancelling the baseball lease. It was understood, however, that the ball club was substantially in arrears on the rent. The lease had until 1946 to run.

After Fuchs made it plain he is no way connected with the racing venture, Fuchs talked by telephone with Tom Yawkey, millionaire president of the Red Sox, and was told very emphatically that the Sox are not interested in a proposal to share their grounds with their National League rivals.

The dog racing issue has kept National league circles in a turmoil since the off season. At their meeting here last month, the club owners went on record as being unanimously opposed to using their baseball parks for ventures where gambling is permitted.

Frick tonight would not predict how the situation might be relieved, but other baseball men saw two alternatives.

TWO ALTERNATES.

One is that the league may adjust the differences between the Braves and the Gaffney estate and regain the use of their ball field.

The other is that if the club is reorganized, the Red Sox may reverse their position and share the enlarged Braves park with the National leaguers.

Braves field was built by the late Jim Gaffney in 1915, a year after the team, led by George Stallings, won a drive in early July that swept them to the pennant and four straight victories over the Athletics in the 1914 World Series.

The Braves have occupied it continuously since. In 1916 the Red Sox met the Brooklyn Dodgers there in the American League's end of the World's Series.

ALABAMA BEATS OLE MISS, 38-26

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Jan. 14.—(P)—With Jim Walker and Ben McLeod scoring 24 points, the Alabama cagers took a 38-26 victory over the University of Mississippi tonight in the opening of a two-game series. The Crimson Tide led, 21 to 11, at half-time.

It was Alabama's forty-seventh straight home victory against college competition. Alabama trailed at the opening of the game but after knotting the count at 7-all went ahead and led the rest of the game.

Reds May Give 'Infant Infield' Job of Lifting Club From Pit

MIZE, KAMPOURIS,
RIGGS AND MYERS CARRY BURDEN

Cincinnati Counting Heavily on Group That Cost $128,000.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Reds, who learned last season that high-luster paint (on the grand stand seats) and high-powered publicity couldn't get them out of the National league cellar, apparently are going to give youth its fling at that Herculean task again.

At least, the fact that the club has laid out the equivalent (estimated) of $128,000 for four young infielders who average 23 years of age, indicates that Owner Powel Crosley and Manager Charles Dressen place considerable hope in the group. And if the team—if it does make good as a unit, will be the youngest infield in major league history.

These four are Johnny Mize, 21, first baseman from Rochester of the International League; Jimmie Myers, 22, shortstop from Sacramento of the Pacific Coast loop; Lew Riggs, 24, third baseman from Columbus of the American association; and Bill Myers, 24, shortstop obtained from the Giants.

THREE VETS TO BEAT.

With such men as Jimmy Jim Bottomley, Tony Piet and Gordon Slade to beat out for positions it is of course not regarded as sure by any means that all the members of this kid infield will win their spurs, but the big fans are reading and rendering the last hope to peddlers with the hope which springs eternal in the breasts of baseball fans.

Mize, latest and most expensive acquisition, comes to the Reds largely by virtue of the spectacularly brilliant season enjoyed by Rick Collins, Cincinnati first baseman in 1936. With his great form, Red officials say, convinced General Manager Branch Rickey of the Cards, who own the franchise, to let him go.

Roy Mundorff, of Tech, who has a fine guard of all-southern caliber in Billy Gileen, wishes that he had a tall center. Hyder, who plays the position, is really a forward, and a very good one. The tall boys out-jump him and consequently, the other team gets the lift ride.

A couple of years ago, Mundorff was a center of this type in Dick Orr, of Newark, but Orr, unfortunately, had to quit school after playing his sophomore year. Tech hasn't had a tall center since, although Mundorff has Ralph Jordan of the freshman team, who ranks in the class of Basman and Swank, running around. Jordan is playing forward now, but Roy may make a center of him next year.

Behold! The Tall Boys Are Coming Back Again

Swails of Clemson, Plasman of Vandy, and Edwards of Kentucky, Are Giants.

By Jimmy Jones.

It seems that tall boys are coming back into their own in southern basketball—particularly at the center position—which has always exploited the six-footers-plus type.

Up at Clemson College in the picturesquely Carolina foothills Saturday night, a young giant named Alex Swails outjumped and outshot Tech's average-sized center, Johnny Hyder, and helped to send Tech to defeat by the score of 40-29.

This Swails, who stands a mere six feet six barefooted, was "swell," in the opinion of Coach Roy Mardorf and Coach William Alexander, who gave him score 21 points against the Jacksonians.

RANGERS OUTSTANDING.

The point in bringing up the long boys this morning is that they are outstanding at center for several leading conference fives this season.

The University of Kentucky has Bob Edwards, a towering specimen who had the highest number of points for last year. And each week numbers are drawn and the various members have inter-club rivalry.

The positions form a ladder and if a challenger defeats his opponent he moves up a rung, so to speak. The high ten club includes, in order, J. E. Clegg, Jack Tway, E. B. Freeman, R. J. Minehan, Hugh Nunally, Jack Gray, Guy Melchor and Bill Healey.

E. Smith Sr. scored a 56x80 with handicap to win the club's silver goblet shoot. It was his first victory at the Capitol.

Mrs. William Healey, with a score of 54x50, finished as runner-up. A. J. Orr, Jr., was third with 53.

Other leaders included Clyde King, 52; Ray Mihnev, 51; George Gray, 50; Charley Nunnally, 50; Bill Healey, 49; Buddy Jones, 48; Addison Smith, 48; H. L. White, 48; Tom Parsons, 47; Guy Melchor, 47; Miller Dargan Jr., 47; H. C. Moore, 47; C. L. Taylor, 47.

There was one squad at the 16-yard trap, preparing for the Florida state shoot at Daytona Beach the latter part of this month.

H. N. Alford led with a perfect 50. Other scores included Mrs. Donald McClain, 49; Jack Tway, 49; Charles Tway, 49; Jack Gray, 45.

The regular silver goblet shoot will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Capitol.

MARVEL MEETS ALMAND FRIDAY

After failing to vanquish his opponent in the stipulated time, the "Masked Marvel" from Birmingham, has given a return match with the rugged Son Almand, Atlanta favorite, at the Avondale arena this coming Friday night.

A strong supporting card has been arranged. In the semi-windup Wild Bill Collins, one of the leaders of Paramount, is pitted against Teddy Bear, champion of the Greeks from Chicago. This bout should match the main go, as it is a headliner in itself.

Buck Jones, of Atlanta, will meet Leon Fuller, fast-comin' middleweight in the 30-minute opener.

Christ Rose Bodily; Darwin Wrong, Eminent British Scientist Declares

LONDON, Jan. 14.—(UP)—Sir Ambrose Fleming, 85, in his presidential address to the Victoria Institute and Philosophical Society of Great Britain, tonight startled the scientists with a challenge that the Darwin theory of evolution of "man from monkey" was a product of the imagination.

Sir Ambrose, long one of the outstanding scientists and philosophers of England, also declared his belief in the bodily resurrection of Christ. He asserted this miracle was one of the most certainly attested facts in human history and that consequently it verified all the previous miracles of the Lord.

Sir Ambrose was educated as an electrical engineer and for years was a consulting electrical engineer. He is a fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, and has headed the Victoria Institute and Philosophical Society for the last eight years.

Ramspeck Introduces Old Age Pension Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Representative Robert Ramspeck of Atlanta introduced a bill yesterday in the House of Representatives which would authorize the secretary of the treasury to appropriate annually $10,000,000 to be apportioned among the states in aiding them in giving assistance to aged persons.

The purpose of the bill is to create in the department of labor a bureau of old age pensions and pension bureau. This bureau would administer the act which provides that the federal government should contribute one-third of the total sum paid to aged persons under the laws of the states or territories which have old-age assistance laws.

Old-age pension laws are now on the statute books of 28 states and two territories. Georgia is not one of them.

Mr. Ramspeck said that figures from the 28 states and two territories show the average pension to be $22.35 a month, the total number of those receiving pensions in these states and territories is approximately 120,000. From the best estimates, if the 48 states and two territories passed legislation for state-wide mandatory system of old-age security, the number of those receiving pensions would be about 484,000 and the total cost for this would be $133,000,000 per year.
